The Class of 2006 Print Edition

Getting Stoned: Quotes from Maney/Pollet Hum presents The Class of 2006 Print Edition!

We had a lot of fun in Maney/Pollet hum this year, and in the words of Mr. Pollet, "Come next year, you will miss this class." We definitely will, so here is a dedication and commemoration to the class of Mr. Maney and Mr. Pollet, Humanities I (English 10, World History and Geography I), in the 2003-2004 school year.

Soap Operas

"When you're in college and your girlfriend wants to watch a soap opera (pause) Brian, that won't be a problem for you! Anyway, when she wants to watch a soap opera, you will, and then you'll get interested in the characters and start watching them and... Why am I talking about this? Okay, moving on..."

-Mr. Pollet, and Brian Aiken.

Posted by Philip on May 25, 2004 2:14 PM

Autocrats

"(Talks on and on about an autocratic ruler, then stops in the middle of a sentence) Why are you yawning?"

-David Blore

"Because I'm paying close attention to every word you're saying."

-Mr. Pollet, who declined the opportunity to be called 'Mr. Anonymous', during a presentation.

Posted by Philip on May 25, 2004 2:12 PM

Fire

"He's goona say 'What up, fire? You want some of this?' And it would run away."

-Mr. Pollet, about Mr. Maney when he stayed in the room during a fire drill.

Don't Care

Discussion starts on how the hum class takes over a computer lab supposedly assigned to a foreign language teacher
She was really mad, but she eventually gave up on it.

I don't care!

We don't care, and if she has a problem, talk to Mr. Maney. points to Mr. Maney

-Me (happened to be in that foreign language class...), Mr. Maney, and Mr. Pollet (these comments were made jokingly, hopefully all is OK between the Humanities and Foreign Language departments.)

Choka

Don't be talking smack
Thingy--AHH I hate that word
Peanut butter yeah!!
You can stone Mr. Pollet
Would it be his first time stoned?

I can benchpress 560
Again and again
Someone wants to beat you up?
Let's call Mr. Maney!
Cuneiform or chickenscratch
Tube tops not welcome in mosques.

Reflective writings
All-night collection packets
Hum away from home
Protective bubble from world
And everyone else is dumb.

"Amanda, you spend way too much time thinking about Maney/Pollet hum."
- Mr. Pollet

(03.10.04)

[I would just like to note I wrote those poems IN class during the Japanese poetry unit, most of them were from quotes, except Mr. Maney never said he could benchpress 560--at least to my knowledge, and I can run with scissors if I want to.]

Reactional Whining

This quote may be a bit of paraphrasing, told from the 6/7 class point of view:

"Ryana here was delivering chocolates to the 1/2 class, and when she went out, I told her, 'Ryana, whine for us!', and she said, Ryana whine mode, unintentional 'NooooooOOOOOOooooooOOOOooooo!!!'"

Ryana says something insignificant here to defend herself after Mr. Pollet recounts the situation, but in a whiny voice... whole class bursts into laughter (will add when I remember)

"I'm going out with this girl, and she breaks up with me. Now, you're going to be saying, 'A girl was going out with Mr. Pollet and she broke up with him? What, was she crazy?' Or, you're going to be thinking, 'A girl was going out with Mr. Pollet? (Pause) What was she, crazy?' So I asked why, and she said 'You're too intense.' And I said 'INTENSE? LET ME TELL YOU SOME intenseness off thing... Oh.' But I can't control the intensity, so when I go home to do the laundry, it's like, 'SOCKS!!! YEAH!!!' does throwing of socks into washer motion and when you're shopping, it's like 'PEANUT BUTTER! YEAH!'"

Quiz Time

"Take out a piece of paper and a pen or pencil, put everything else away."

Time passes

"OK. From this point on, I should not see or hear you talking to another student. If I see or hear you talking to another student, I have to assume you're cheating and give you a zero for the quiz. I don't want to do that, and I know that you points to random student don't want me to do that.

Likewise, I should not see you looking at another student's paper. If I see you looking at another student's paper, I have to assume you're cheating and give you a zero for the quiz. I don't want to do that, and I know that you points to random student don't want me to do that.

If you have a question, raise your hand. If I can help you, I will. If I can not, then I will tell you that you are on your own.

For true or false questions, please write "True" or "False." Do not write the "T" that can also function as an "F."

Time passes

"Alright, looks like most people are done. Raise your hand if you're not done."

More than 10 people raise their hand

"One or two people."

After all quizzes are done

"Pencils down. Please pass both papers up, and the person in the front of the room will sort them into two piles, preferably one with the questions and one with the answers."

-Mr. Pollet, before, during, and after giving a quiz

Welcome to Getting Stoned

Hm, it seems many people in Maney/Pollet hum collect quotes - Polletisms and Maneyisms. Well, it seemed proper to create a public collection of these quotes for your viewing pleasure. Phil and I will be admin-ing this page for now - if you collect quotes, you can help with this page too.
